ABOUT US

The National Native American Human Resources Association (NNAHRA) is a nonprofit organization comprised of a 501(c)(6) Association and a 501(c)(3) Foundation. Our mission is to serve, support, and guide human resources professionals and tribal leaders working throughout Indigenous Country. NNAHRA provides educational events, valuable resources, professional certifications, and a strong network dedicated to preserving tribal sovereignty, strengthening self-sufficiency, and ensuring the right to self-govern.

OUR HISTORY

NNAHRA began in 1996 as a small, grassroots gathering of four tribes from the Pacific Northwest coming together to share challenges, collaborate, and elevate personnel practices. What started with just four participants has grown into a national organization of more than 2,000 active members representing over 400 tribes. Now in our 30th year, NNAHRA continues to honor its origins while evolving to meet the needs of a rapidly changing HR landscape in Tribal Country.

Empowering HR Professionals and Tribal Leaders

NNAHRA is deeply committed to supporting those who serve their communities by navigating the unique complexities of human resources and leadership within Indigenous organizations. Our programs, certifications, and workshops are thoughtfully designed to address critical areas such as:

- Benefits and compensation
- Succession planning
- Employee and labor relations
- Mental health awareness
- Workforce development
- Leadership and professional growth

Through a tailored curriculum and culturally grounded training, we empower HR professionals and leaders with the tools, knowledge, and confidence they need to foster healthy, resilient, and future-focused workplaces.

SIGNATURE CERTIFICATIONS & PROFESSIONAL PATHWAYS

NNAHRA offers a suite of nationally recognized certifications and developmental programs that support HR professionals, managers, and adjudicators across Tribal Country, including:

• THRP – Tribal Human Resources Professional Certification

A comprehensive certification designed for HR professionals working in Tribal organizations, focused on legal frameworks, sovereignty, and HR best practices specific to Indigenous Country.

• TMP – Tribal Management Professional Certification

A leadership-focused program designed for supervisors, managers, and emerging leaders. TMP strengthens management skills, develops communication and team-building practices, and expands leadership capacity in Tribal organizations.

- TAP – Tribal Adjudication Professional Certification

A specialized certification created for those working within tribal court systems, regulatory roles, or administrative hearing processes. TAP equips professionals with essential knowledge in due process, compliance, investigations, and adjudication frameworks within tribal governance.

Together, THRP, TMP, and TAP form a powerful professional development pathway that elevates HR, leadership, and compliance excellence across all levels of Tribal operations.

- Annual Conference & National Network

Each year, NNAHRA hosts its annual conference, bringing together hundreds of HR professionals, tribal leaders, and Native organizations for three days of powerful learning, collaboration, and community. Through workshops, keynote sessions, leadership discussions, and networking events, the conference strengthens connections and drives collective growth across Tribal Country.

Building Stronger, More Resilient Communities

As NNAHRA continues to expand its reach and offerings, we remain honored to serve as a bridge connecting HR professionals, tribal leaders, and Indigenous organizations nationwide. Together, we are shaping the future of human resources and leadership in Tribal Country – elevating knowledge, strengthening communities, and supporting sovereignty with every step.

NNAHRA GOALS

Wage Surveys: Expand wage survey offerings to tribal governments in 2024.

Membership Services: Enhance membership services; regional chapter creation; social media enhanced shared resources.

Relationship Building: Serve as a bridge connecting other Native American nonprofit organizations to improve human resources/organization development presence in areas of government leadership and operations.

Networking: Serve as a bridge connecting those working for Native organizations or tribal governments to become a resource for each other.

Administration: Identify and select full-time staff to fully carry out the mission and goals of the volunteer board of professionals.

Partnership: Gain support of individual, corporation, and government entities to increase NNAHRA visibility and support of the mission to create and sustain a viable workforce of tribal area community members. Identify grants to fund additional staff and programs to further support our membership.

Consulting: Provide best practice consulting by providing assessment, administration, and technical assistance for Tribes and their enterprises.

WHAT WE DO

Our Vision

Our vision is to be recognized and valued as the organization of choice to advocate, research, and educate on behalf of Tribal human resources professionals throughout Indigenous Country. We are committed to protecting and honoring tribal sovereignty and jurisdiction through meaningful, strategic, and culturally grounded human resources practices.

Our Mission

Our mission is to provide timely, trusted information and resources to those serving and leading Tribal governments and enterprises in all areas of people management, employment policy development, leadership development, and capacity building across Indigenous Country.

Our History

NNAHRA began as a grassroots effort when four tribes came together to share challenges, collaborate, and strengthen their personnel practices. Those early meetings grew into regional conferences, which soon expanded into a national network. Now, in our 30th year and beyond, NNAHRA continues to advance, support, and advocate for Tribal Nations by staying true to our foundational goals:

Core Commitments

- Serving Tribal HR professionals through education and certification, including our flagship THRP – Tribal Human Resources Professional Certification
- Expanding leadership excellence through the TMP – Tribal Management Professional Certification, designed to strengthen supervisory and management skills across Tribal organizations
- Supporting compliance and due process through the TAP – Tribal Adjudication Professional Certification, ensuring fair, consistent, and culturally aligned adjudication practices
- Maintaining THRP Certification by offering timely, informative quarterly summits focused on emerging issues, regulations, and HR trends
- Monitoring, advocating, and engaging at the federal level on matters impacting Tribal workplace regulations, sovereignty, and HR practices
- Researching, surveying, and informing members of best workplace practices through data, reports, communication channels, and Tribal HR insights
- Applying for and securing grants to build capacity, support education, and strengthen Native-led HR programs across the country
- Providing direct services to Tribes and Tribal organizations, including employment policy development, organizational structuring, and on-site HR and leadership training

WHO WE ARE

- We are a team of professionals made up of an elected board of directors, an appointed advisory committee, and supporting staff members.
- Our board of directors are each employed by a tribe or tribal organization. Members serve voluntarily and are eligible for re-election after each term.
- Our advisory committee is comprised of professionals serving Indigenous Country are appointed by the board to serve two-year terms. Areas of expertise include law, technology, education, philanthropy, and finance. Advisors, in turn, serve the board in their profession to successfully support and operate NNAHRA.
- Our staff consists of dedicated professionals with years of experience in HR in Indigenous Country. In many cases, staff members contribute to furthering NNAHRA's mission by being elected and appointed to seats on the board and advisory committee.

TESTIMONIALS

"As the National Tribal Strategic Alliance Executive for the University of Phoenix, it is such an honor to collaborate with and support the efforts of the National Native American Human Resources Association (NNAHRA). Being a sponsor for NNAHRA is more than just contributing money or resources that help them provide service to their members; it is about participating in the enrichment of virtually every part of Indigenous Country through their HR teams. NNAHRA is an amazing organization with dedicated individuals who are committed to their mission of supporting HR professionals and tribal leaders. Most of their team is volunteer, but you would never know that by their extraordinary efforts, amazing conferences, and specialized HR training."

-Patrick Horning, MBA, MAEd, National Tribal Strategic Alliance Executive/University of Phoenix

"The annual NNAHRA conference is one of the best places to catch up with industry leaders and learn more about the latest Tribally focused HR topics. This conference allows us to connect with our clients and industry peers as well as other professionals in attendance. The venues, speakers, and overall atmosphere really lead to an amazing three-day experience. The sessions are well planned, and the content is directly relevant to the challenges we face day to day. I would consider this to be the top Tribal conference to attend!"

-Jason Jones, Tribal First

"NNAHRA has been a fantastic partner for NAVA Benefits. They constantly ask for feedback on how we can better partner with one another. They've allowed us to build strong relationships that have helped NAVA in terms of revenue and feedback on our product roadmap."

-Marcel Ocampo, Partner & Market Director

"Soaring Bird Solutions has been honored to sponsor the NNAHRA annual conference for the last few years. It has given us the opportunity to meet human resource decision-makers that we would not normally be able to reach. The sessions are highly relevant to Indigenous Country and the general vibe from the attendees is that of excitement and engagement. The leadership team at NNAHRA genuinely cares about the issues affecting HR in Indian Country and does an amazing job."

-Karla Bylund, CEO, Soaring Bird Solutions
